Open Innovation The New Imperative

Open Innovation is not new - it has been around for around 50 years. Many companies used OI to give themselves an edge. It was not given a name until the 21st century when Chesbrough saw it, being used, described it, gave it the name Open Innovation and cashed in with fancy words such as "The New Imperative For Creating & Profiting From Technology".

The Era of Open Innovation - MIT Sloan Management Review

Chesbrough, who coined the term "Open Innovation" describes in his book "Open Innovation: The New Imperative for Creating and Profiting from Technology" (2003) how companies have shifted from so-called closed innovation processes towards a more open way of innovating. Traditionally, new business development processes and the marketing of new products took place within the firm boundaries (Figure 1).
