The Sermon Of Saint Anthony

The Sermons (Sermones) are the Saint's great work of literature and theology, which earned him the title of Doctor of the Church. We can consider it as a treaty of sacred doctrine under the form of a collection of sermons, by which the Saint aims to explain all of Scripture. Anthony wrote the Sermons with the specific purpose of providing his brethren with a preaching tool.

THE SERMONS OF SAINT ANTONY OF PADUA

The "Sermon of Saint Anthony to the Fish" is a sermon written by Portuguese Jesuit priest António Vieira, preached to the congregation at the Church of Saint Anthony in São Luís do Maranhão, Colonial Brazil, on 13 June 1654. It is Vieira's most famous work. It was preached in the context of the conflict between the colony's settlers and the Jesuits, who reiterated Pope Urban VIII's prohibition against Indian slavery. Three days after preaching it, Vieira secretly embarked to Lisbon to ...

Sermon of Saint Anthony to the Fish - Wikipedia

Saint Anthony Preaching to the Fish is a 1580-1585 oil on canvas painting of Anthony of Padua by Paolo Veronese, now in the Galleria Borghese in Rome. Its original location is unknown, though its medium dimensions of 104 centimetres by 150 centimetres mean it may have been painted for the side wall of a chapel or as part of a cycle of paintings for a small school somewhere in Veneto. It entered the collection of Cardinal Scipione Borghese as a 1607 gift from Francesco Barbaro.
